Greetings and News Updates
In This Issue 今号について
Learner Development SIG News Update LD SIG 近況報告

Getting Connected: Local Get-together Reports from Tokyo, Kansai and Hiroshima
つながりを求め: 東京・関西・広島

LD SIG Members’ Voices メンバーの声
Utilization of learners’ cultural backgrounds for the promotion of a positive learning environment in ELL classrooms, Nakagawa, Hiroshi

LD SIG 2014 Research Grant Awardees 2014 年度 LD SIG 研究助成金受賞者
Rejuvenating the spirit and challenging the mind at JALT 2014, Verla, Adrianne
My Family and Other Conceptions of “Clever”, Kocel-Ross, Caroline
Conference Report (JALT 2014 Conference), Sakurai, Yoko

Creative Writing
Guidelines for the new creative writing column, Unosawa, Kazuko
Theories of Second Language Requisition, Kocel-Ross, Caroline

Featured Article フィチャード アーテイクル
The Role of Teacher Autonomy in Learner Autonomy, Egitim, Soyhan

Looking Back 報告
Reflections on Creating Community: Learning Together, Otsuma Women’s University, December 14, 2014

Looking Forward 今後のイベント
The stories of our success: Narratives in language development–LD SIG forum at the JALT Pan-SIG 2015 conference in Kobe

SIG Matters インフォメーション
Call For Contributions 『学習の学習』原稿募集
Financial Report 財務報告
Welcome to the Spring 2015 issue of Learning Learning, the Learner Development SIG’s (LD SIG) biannual online newsletter. Springtime in Japan is synonymous with new starts and for teachers this usually means new students, classes, and possibly even schools. These all bring with them opportunities for personal and professional growth. We hope this issue reaches you just in time to give you ideas about encouraging learner development in your classrooms.

The issue begins with the SIG coordinators, Alison Stewart and Fumiko Murase, borrowing the conversation style of our website’s Talking Points column to report on the latest SIG developments. This is followed by reports from local get-togethers in Kansai, Hiroshima, and Tokyo.

In the Members’ Voices section, Hiroshi Nakagawa shares his experiences trying to foster learner autonomy through the creation of a positive learning environment to help his students become relaxed and engaged. This is followed by three submissions from recipients of grants in 2014: Adrianne Verla and Yoko Sakurai, who wrote reflective pieces about their experiences leading up to and at JALT2014, and Caroline Ross, who shares with us her grant application to inspire more people to apply for grants and her reflection on PanSIG2014.

In the Looking Back section, teacher and student participants of Creating Community: Learning Together, which was held in Tokyo in mid-December, share their experiences at what all have said was a unique and valuable event. The Looking Forward section contains a preview of the LDSIG forums at PanSIG2015 (this weekend) and JALTCALL2015, coming up on June 6-7 in Fukuoka.

Many thanks to all the volunteers working tirelessly behind the scenes to make sure this issue arrived on time: James Underwood and Monika Szirmai for putting the issue together; Andy Barfield, Christopher Fitzgerald, Stacey Vye, and Alison Stewart for various editing and proofreading help they provided; Kazuko Unosawa for starting the Creative Writing Column; Yoko Sakurai for her Japanese translations; Mayumi Abe and the rest of the treasury team for working tirelessly to compile the SIGs financial report; and Hugh Nicoll for the work of uploading this issue to the LD SIG website.

Thank you on behalf of the Learning Learning team!

Mathew Porter